

"Yellow Fever"

Yellow Fever or Yellow Jack killed around 200,000 people in the U.S. between 1817 and 1905. Called Yellow Fever because it caused jaundice from damage to the liver, along with many other symptoms including fever, vomiting, and bleeding from the mouth and eyes....all from a tiny little mosquito bite.